Mr. Alex. Kirby, an employee of the Richmond Locomotive Works, who resides on Louisiana Street, was painfully injured several days ago while at work. Mr. Kirby was working with several other workmen engaged in putting together a powerful steam shovel when the accident occurred. Overhead were large steel hooks, suspended by chains, which were used to lift heavy weights. One of these hooks, which weighed about twenty-five pounds, in some way came loose from the chain to which it was attached and fell, striking Mr. Kirby on the top of his head, inflicting a very painful injury, which required several days to close. He was taken to the Virginia Hospital, where the necessary attention was given him. Mr. Kirby soon recovered from the shock of the accident and then went to his home. He is getting along very nicely to-day.
